The Child Development Centre
of Prince George and District

Heart · Hope · A helping hand

Speech-Language Pathologist

Start Date: Negotiable
Wages: $44.85-$56.02 per hour - $87,457.50 to $109,239 per year, plus a pension contribution (currently 9.31% of gross earnings)
Hours: Monday to Friday, 37.5 hours per week (full-time, permanent)

The Opportunity
This is an opportunity to work within a team of highly skilled and supportive professionals in a positive work environment that values collaboration, flexibility and family-centered care. Your caseload will include speech therapy services for children from birth to school entry. Work is primarily from our centre in Prince George, with occasional outreach to surrounding communities.

We Offer

- excellent benefits: inclusion in the defined rate Municipal Pension Plan, extended medical, dental, long term disability insurance, and more
- mentoring and paid training
- relocation allowance available

Qualifications/Requirements (required by start date)

- active registration with the College of Health and Care Professionals of British Columbia
- graduate of a recognized Speech-Language Pathology program
- an acceptable criminal record check
- a valid British Columbia Class 5 driver's license
- current COVID-19 vaccination including booster within the past 10 months

About Us
We are one of BC's largest and longest-serving child development charities founded in 1967 and we assist over 1,000 children annually through our services.

At the CDC, we believe that no person is an island — collaboration is at the heart of everything we do. Our Centre is home to a dynamic team of therapists who thrive in an environment grounded in open communication, shared knowledge, and mutual respect.

We are proud to be an agile workplace that values flexibility, work-life balance, and individual diversity. Our Centre likes to prioritize in-person service with a mix of remote work; we want our team members to work in the way that suits them and their families best.

Our culture is vibrant and inclusive — from summer BBQs and Zumba classes to birthday celebrations, we embrace connection and fun. We also encourage comfortable dress, flexible hours, and a genuine sense of belonging.

At CDC, transparency and trust are cornerstones of our team's success. When our employees feel valued and heard, they respond with engagement, innovation, and excellence in client care.

Community

Prince George is a vibrant, four-season city that features spectacular lifestyle options, including a wide variety of outdoor recreational opportunities, many dining options, live theatre, all major department stores, and more. We are home to the University of Northern BC, the second most highly ranked primarily undergraduate university in Canada (Maclean's). The city offers housing that is extremely affordable. See the following for more information: Move Up PG, Tourism PG.

Interested applicants are invited to submit a cover letter and résumé by email to:
Joan Beek, Lead Speech-Language Pathologist, joanb@cdcpg.org
For additional information, call (250) 561-6558